TUESDAY EVE, MARCH 12, 1889.

Mr. DAVID BENNETT HILL probably resists by this time, or if not he soon will, that his good friend Grover Cleveland was fully alive to his opportunities when he concluded to settle down in New York City, where he can keep the forefinger of one hand upon the pulse, and the five fingers of the other hand on the throat of the great Democratic party. Grover may look stupid, and heavy and sleepy, but there are not many times which have the temerity to make a permanent settlement upon him. And then he will have his Fidus Achates, Dan Lamont, within calling distance all the time. Gov. Hill will find that Grover is not quite done with him yet.

The elevator in the Washington monument, during inauguration week, was thronged everytime it made its five-hundred-and-fifty-feet ascent, and many persons found the squeezing to which they were subjected anything but comfortable. One gallant Decatur gentleman apologized to a handsome girl for the involuntary squeezing he was giving her when she fairly took his breath away by bestowing her sweetest smile upon him as she grasped, "Oh, don't mention it—I'm used to it." If the cage had not been made of the strongest American iron he would have fallen to the bottom of the shaft. As it was, he "tumbled."

Democratic Prospects.
The Atlanta Constitution, in a rather lengthy editorial, discusses the outlook for 1892, and expresses the belief that in spite of the somewhat discouraging situation the Democrats have the victory almost as good as won now. It bases its reasons for this optimistic view upon the assumption that the country will not turn en masse to the maintenance of such a tariff as the Republicans are expected to enforce when they have all the departments of the government in their hands. It is a good long way off in the future—the contest of 1892—and the reasons upon which any prognostications are based must of necessity be largely hypothetical, but there are some questions which will have to be considered in making up any opinion on the case. The main question is as to the attitude which the Democratic party will occupy during the next four years. Its past history does not give much ground for the hope that it will be actuated by any higher motives than those which have controlled it for a generation. It has had opportunities during the period of its ascendancy to impress upon the people its theories, but it has done nothing except to essay its great act of trying to show that it has not been as worthy of condemnation as the people themselves and again pronounced it. To formulate and work out any theories of government for its betterment did not seem to be the chief aim of the leaders, but rather to show that the Democratic party could play at governing without wrecking the entire outfit. It started out in 1885 with a great flourish, proclaiming that it would shew in short order how vicious and villainous had been the men who had been at the front for twenty-four years. It had no other aim than to uncover scandals which should make their own less noticeable by the comparison. It failed in this, as it failed in about everything it undertook. It is parades this purpose for four years more, with all the recklessness born of its own irresponsible position, the people will be slow to again trust the party which has pursued a purposeless phantom while it was in power. Questions of tariff will not even suffice to distract the attention of the majority from the chief business in hand—the keeping of this party out of the power which it did not know how to use when it possessed it. All other questions will sink into insignificance when the issue is made up, and the verdict will be a repetition of the "none, take" of Bismarck's time. Abraham Lincoln once said, "You can fool some of the people all the time, and you can fool all the people some of the time, but it is hard to fool all the people all the time," and like a good many of his homely aphorisms, this one is true to-day, as it was when it was uttered. It will be hard to fool the people with Democracy twice in eight years.

To a New Bride and a Latest Copper.
Good Housekeeping.

You little things, you sometimes that's sounding over my life.
When you have left the farm and me, to be
But I suppose my mother just fits so when from her side.
Your father came, one summer's day, to carry you off.

How happy had I been, if Providence had spared me.

My good old man to see this day, who all my friends seemed to like.
But that I could not bring him back, not even if I might.
Nor was there any break that's in my lot, for what he does is right.

But as I sit alone and think, I see some things I'd change.

I might have made him happier, then, do you know, if I had been more considerate.

If I should speak some warning words to save you, you'd think I was a fool.

From my own thoughts, and mistakes, to bring clouds o'er your way.

But just remember, Hannah dear, that though you're pretty bright,

It may be possible you'll not be always right;

Perhaps you're not, you're feeling or some other way.

You'll find the world's not all you own, if you live too long within its walls.

As when we've washed the window panes together face to face,

So that the smudges or stain would not be left.

You would insist, however hard to make you see I tried.

That's the way we're in, fault, when two're on'ty of your side.

And, Hannah, oh, be patient, if you and I,

Some times show,

Your will not be like the lightning streaks,

As well as the sun and moon.

Now, lightning is a handy thing in stormy nights, it's true.

But when all a steady shine is kind of useful,

And if there's any difference comes 'twixt you good man and you,

Doesn't he ask who's fault it is,

It's just to take the living in hand and try with all your might.

But when it's too big to change, to fit it up all right.

You know the dough, when first the set is,

But when you're with us, we can not change its shape for good or ill.

So now, when you're starting out on new

The time to see what ways you'll set to harden into crust.

But then, you'll not succeed alone, no master

You'll have to go down on your knees and ask help from on high;

75 men, and a bolt and ball and vine, but after all, you know,

It takes Heaven's sun to make the clothes a white as new-fallen snow.

The Samoan Question as Viewed by an Old State Department Officer.

Eight New War Vessels to be Constructed—in Favor of the West Pointers.

Brains and Stamps—Tendered Their Resignations—The New Postmaster-General—A Denial.

The Situation in Samoa.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 11.—Speaking about Samoa, an old officer of the State Department said yesterday: "It would be very easy for Germany to keep back news from Samoa for a long time. All the mails from Samoa to Auckland are carried on German vessels, and if the officers of that government wanted to cut off all sources of information, they could easily do so. The rumour concerning the island has been destroyed, but it is believed, that the German may have, while proceeding to re-open negotiations, given secret orders to the officers of the German fleet to bring matters to a crisis, and if this is the case there may have been fighting between the two naval forces, and Germany may be keeping back the news."

The United States steamer "Trenton" and "Vandalia" were due at Samoa before the end of February, though their arrival was not expected. However, that word will be received from one or both of them within the next few days. The "Vandalia" was expected to arrive first, as she had the advantage over the "Trenton" of being able to coal at Honolulu on her way out.

These vessels would both report their arrival as soon as possible, the first leaving for Auckland, and the second arriving at Samoa.

There is no serious change in the state of affairs in the islands; he would not likely wait for a trading vessel, but would send one of his own vessels to Auckland with serious but not enough space on board.

THE INDIANA MUDDLE.

The Plot Thickens—Trouble Laid Up in Store for the Future.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—Both houses of the Legislature adjourned sine die yesterday. It transpired late yesterday afternoon that all the bills passed over the Governor's veto by the Democratic majority were in such shape that they are bound to fail. The Constitution requires that bills be read three times, and almost every one connected with that bill and joint resolutions passed by the Legislature, when proposed were simply signed by the clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate, and in this form deposited with the Secretary of State instead of going through the hands of the Governor as the statutes require. THE "FLORENTINE" +DIAMOND!+

Pendant Shape, 31 x 27 Min., is of Light Yellow Color.

The Florentine is also called the Toskan, weighs 139 $\frac{1}{2}$ Karats and is valued at present at \$525,000. Charles, the Daring, a German Emperor, wore this stone along with other valuables in the Battle of Granson, where he lost his stone; a Swiss found it and sold it, and not knowing its value, sold the same for one florin, equal to 40 cents, to a Priest, who was also unaware of its value; he hastened to get rid of it at a loss, and sold it to one of his countrymen for one franc, equal to 20 cents. This owner knew it was valuable and got 5,000 florins for it, equal to \$2,000, from a man of Genoa; he resold it again to the Government of Berne, which sold it for 30,000 florins, equal to \$12,000, to Herr Fugger, of Nuremberg. He then sold it to the King of England, Henry VIII. It was then inherited by his daughter Queen Maria, who brought it along with her wedding outfit to her husband, and a member of the Spanish Kingdom; through him it came into the Treasury of the City of Milan, Italy, and as Italy needed cash, she sold it to the Pope, Julius II., for 40,000 ducats, equal to \$80,000. It is at present in the Treasury of Austria.

Our Meat Market was established in 1855—thirty-four years ago, on the corner of South Main and Wood streets, where we are still located. The above fact proves conclusively that we have attained marked success in catering to the wants of the public, and should be accepted as a sufficient guarantee for the future. We can, as before, supply you with the best of everything in our line, and only ask for a continuance of the very liberal patronage heretofore bestowed, being satisfied that we can MEAT all demands made upon us.

Washington, March 12.—Speaking about Samoa affairs, an old officer of the State Department said yesterday: "It would be very easy for Germany to keep back news from Samoa for a long time. All the mails from Samoa to Auckland are carried on German vessels, and if the officers of that government wanted to do so all sources of information, he could prevent the mail from leaving the island. It is my opinion that Nicholas Bismarck is hardly to be believed, though Bismarck may have, while pretending to re-open negotiations, given secret orders to the officers of the German fleet to bring matters to a crisis, and if this is the case there may have been fighting between the two naval forces, and this may be the reason why the news does not come." The United States steamer Trenton had arrived at Samoa before the arrival of February, though their arrival has not yet been reported. It is expected, however, that word will be received from one or both of them within the next few days. The Vandals were expected to arrive first, as she had the advantage over the Trenton of being able to coal at Honolulu on the way out. These vessels would now report their arrival to the Trenton, against whom the arrival of February, though their arrival at Samoa, and it Admiral Klüber found any serious change in the state of affairs at the islands, he would not likely wait for a trading vessel, but would send one of his own vessels to Auckland with dispatches, unless the situation was so serious that he could not safely spare one of the vessels of his small fleet.

New War Vessels

WASHINGTON, March 12.—It is expected that shortly after the beginning of the next fiscal year, the Government will award contracts for the construction of eight new war vessels. The vessels will have the latest improved ideas in their construction, and will be of high speed and heavy armament. One of the new ships will be a great iron-clad of 7,500 tons. Four more new cutters will also be constructed during the present year.

In Favor of the West Pointers.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Supreme Court of the United States rendered a decision yesterday affirming the judgment of the Court of Claims in the case of the United States, against, agents of the late Gen. F. Watson, which held that the time an army officer serves as a cadet at West Point is to be taken into account in computing his longevity pay.

Y., on the 10th of October last, by which sixty persons lost their lives, was begun yesterday. Henry Mayer, the engineer in charge of the locomotive which crashed into the train standing on the track ahead of him, is the principal defendant. Eminent counsel will appear for both sides."

To be Placed in the National Insane Asylum.

CHICAGO, March 12.—George Dinstro, who is the editor of the "Chicago Daily News," which published an article to the effect that the Mud Run disaster, the most important in the history of the country, had been caused by the explosion of a dynamite bomb, has been arrested. THE INDIANA MUDDLE.

The Plot Thickens—Trouble Laid Up in Store for the Future.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—Both houses of the Legislature adjourned sine die yesterday. It transpired late yesterday afternoon that all the bills passed over the Governor's veto by the Democratic majority in such shape that they are bound to fail. The Constitution requires the signatures of the Speaker of the House and of joint resolutions of both the Legislature. When the vetoed bills were re-passed they were signed by the clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate, and in this form deposited with the Secretary of State instead of going through the hands of the Governor as the statutes require. It is maintained by opponents of the bill that the signatures of the Speaker and the Secretary of the Senate are all that are needed, and that all that is required is that they be in great numbers. Delegations from various lodges of Elks, Knights of Pythias, etc., the Swedish Guards, and the Technical Society of New York were largely represented. The big Delameter Iron-works closed their works yesterday, and almost every one connected with that establishment was present. Captain Louis V. Stoddard, the only surviving officer of the famous "Regiment of Death," was present. The romantic tale of the "Martyr of Wall Street" was celebrated last evening. The naval band of the "U.S.A." will play to-night.

JOHN ERICHSON.

FUNERAL OF JOHN ERICHSON, THE GREAT INVENTOR FROM TRINITY CHURCH, NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The funeral of the late John Ericsson, the inventor, took place yesterday from the church of Trinity. The body was followed from his home in Broad street to the church by a long procession of carriages and mourners. The sidewalk in front of the church were packed with people who were anxious to catch a glimpse of the casket containing the body. A force of police was present to keep the people from pressing into the already over-crowded church. The organ played a solo while the body was being carried into the church. The navy was well-represented, there being present two officers from each ship and one officer from each department.

It was after two o'clock when the body reached the church with the pall-bearers walking behind it. The formal offerings were numerous. One of the floral offerings was a spray of violets from Sweden, who had cable instructions to have it sent. Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix and Rev. Mr. Hill read the simple Protestant Episcopal services over the remains. Among the large crowd present, people with the characteristic features of Northern Europe, were noted in great numbers. Delegations from various lodges of Elks, Knights of Pythias, etc., the Swedish Guards, and the Technical Society of New York were largely represented. The big Delameter Iron-works closed their works yesterday, and almost every one connected with that establishment was present. Captain Louis V. A FOREIGN WAR.

LONDON, March 12.—It is asserted by the Pall Mall Gazette that the Times has decided not to close its case before the Parliament Commission to-day, as its counsel had intended to do. This change of front is made, it is alleged, in view of recent events which have made it desirable, if not absolutely necessary, for the prosecution to make further attempts to stir up its case so that the result of the defense will not be a conviction.

Reports are in circulation warranting the belief that Mr. Chapman will be added to the Cabinet as the head of the Department of Agriculture.

The People Gathering.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 12.—A mob of about two thousand people gathered at the County Hall this morning to await the arrival of Sun Yat Sen and Dab Jin, the two Chinamen charged with intriguing little girls into their laundries for immoral purposes. They were disappointed, however, as the officers feared another demonstration, and took the prisoners to the court-room at a very early hour. The crowd is very noisy, but no demonstration of any kind occurred. About fifty men in squads are now engaged in disturbing the assembly. No serious trouble is anticipated. The examination of the prisoners is now in progress.

LAWES.
The preliminary examination began at 11 a.m. and continued until half past twelve o'clock, when the process was taken up again. There were no new developments. The crowd was noisy, but no disturbance was caused by the testifying.

THE OUTRAGE CHINESE LAUNDRIES.

The crowd which had been hanging around the City Hall since early morning, suddenly left the vicinity about three o'clock this afternoon and proceeded in a body to the West Side, where they are now smashing in the windows and gutting the Chinese laundry. The police are hurrying to the scene.

THE FREELING AGAINST THE PRISONERS GROWING.

After smashing in the doors and windows of a number of Chinese laundry this afternoon, the crowd dispersed and no further trouble was reported. The feeling against the Chinese is growing in bitterness as the gravity of their crime is being revealed by the testimony in court.

THE "FLORENTINE" +DIAMOND!+

Pendant Shape, 31 x 27 Mm., is of Light Yellow Color.

The Florentine is also called the Toskan, weighs 139 Karats and is valued at present at $525,000. Charles, the Daring, a German Emperor, wore this stone along with other valuables in the Battle of Granson, where he lost his stone; a Swiss found it and sold it, and not knowing its value, sold the same for one florin, equal to 40 cents, to a Priest, who was also unaware of its value; he hastened to get rid of it at a loss, and sold it to one of his countrymen for one franc, equal to 20 cents. This owner knew it was valuable and got 5,000 florins for it, equal to $2,000, from a man of Genoa; he resold it again to the Government of Berne, which sold it for 30,000 florins, equal to $12,000, to Herr Fugger, of Nuremberg. He then sold it to the King of England, Henry VIII. It was then inherited by his daughter Queen Maria, who brought it along with her wedding outfit to her husband, and a member of the Spanish Kingdom; through him it came into the Treasury of the City of Milan, Italy, and as Italy needed cash, she sold it to the Pope, Julius II., for 40,000 ducats, equal to $80,000. It is at present in the Treasury of Austria.
